Eyes and Ears of the Spirit

Follow this and additional works at: https://dsc.duq.edu/tempo

Part of the Music Education Commons, Music Practice Commons, and the Other Music Commons

Recommended Citation
(2016). Eyes and Ears of the Spirit. TEMPO, 14 (1). Retrieved from https://dsc.duq.edu/tempo/vol14/iss1/12

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by Duquesne Scholarship Collection. It has been accepted for inclusion in TEMPO by an authorized editor of Duquesne Scholarship Collection.
The Mary Pappert School of Music and St. Mary of the Mount Parish (SMOMP) collaborated with the DePaul School for Hearing and Speech and the Western Pennsylvania School for the Deaf on an atypical installment of the annual Music on the Mount series. The event, Eyes and Ears of the Spirit, took place January 31, 2016, and was the culmination of a week’s worth of clinics featuring guests Alice-Ann Darrow (Irvin Cooper Professor of Music Therapy, Florida State University) and Julie Novak (Music Educator/Music Therapist, Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind). Both are experts in the field of working with those who have vision loss or are deaf/hard-of-hearing. Their combined efforts led to a wonderful afternoon for all in attendance.

Eyes and Ears of the Spirit was not a traditional “concert.” Rather than performances by musicians, the event was structured to provide those who hear well with various ways to understand how those who do not hear well experience music. American Sign Language was understandably a large component of that concept. However, other methods were presented that are not necessarily as immediately apparent. For example, balloons were handed out, and concert attendees were encouraged to place their hands on the balloons while organ music with deep registration was performed. The balloons vibrated to the music, making the music tactile. Other examples included visualizations of music, ensemble signing, and dance, each designed to provide a different way of interpreting music when hearing is a factor.
EYES AND EARS OF THE SPIRIT WAS NOT A TRADITIONAL ‘CONCERT.’

The afternoon’s event concluded with several members of St. Mary of the Mount’s deaf choir recounting their personal experiences as members of the choir. They each took to the altar to share, via sign language voiced by an interpreter, what it meant to them to be a member of that community.

All of us at the Mary Pappert School of Music wish to thank everyone involved in making Eyes and Ears of the Spirit a great success:

- Alice-Ann Darrow, Irvin Cooper Professor of Music Therapy, Florida State University
- Julie Novak, Music Educator/Music Therapist, Colorado School for the Deaf and Blind
- Fr. Michael Stumpf, Pastor, St. Mary of the Mount Parish
- Fr. Walt Rydzon, Pastor of the Deaf Community, St. Mary of the Mount Parish
- Amanda Plazek Bruce, Director of Music Ministry, St. Mary of the Mount Parish
- Michael Bobanic, President of the Deaf Council, St. Mary of the Mount Parish
- Ruth Auld, Executive Director, DePaul School for Hearing & Speech
- Marybeth Lauderdale, Director, Western Pennsylvania School for the Deaf
- Donald Mazrek, Elementary Principal, Western Pennsylvania School for the Deaf
- Seth Beckman, Dean, Mary Pappert School of Music
- Paul Doernsen, Chair of Music Education and Music Therapy, Mary Pappert School of Music
- Elaine Abbott, Director of Music Therapy, Mary Pappert School of Music
- Linda Sanders, Adjunct Professor, Music Therapy, Mary Pappert School of Music
- Rachel Whitcomb, Associate Professor, Music Education, Mary Pappert School of Music
Fr. Michael Stumpf, SMOMP

Michael Bobanic (President of the Deaf Council, SMOMP) with Julie Novak

Vickie D’Avanzo, interpreter, and Amanda Bruce, SMOMP’s Director of Music Ministry

Balloons allowed participants to feel vibrations from organ music

Alice-Ann Darrow, Florida State University

https://dsc.duq.edu/tempo/vol14/iss1/12