

Duquesne University

Duquesne Scholarship Collection

Hallowed Secularism

The Collective Works of Bruce Ledewitz, Adrian
Van Kaam C.S.Sp. Endowed Chair in Scholarly
Excellence and Professor of Law

4-1-2018

April 1, 2018: Passover, Easter and Impossible Renewal

Bruce Ledewitz

Duquesne University, ledewitz@duq.edu

Follow this and additional works at: <https://dsc.duq.edu/ledewitz-hallowedsecularism>

Part of the Constitutional Law Commons, and the Law and Philosophy Commons

Repository Citation

Ledewitz, B. (2018). April 1, 2018: Passover, Easter and Impossible Renewal. Retrieved from <https://dsc.duq.edu/ledewitz-hallowedsecularism/1152>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the The Collective Works of Bruce Ledewitz, Adrian Van Kaam C.S.Sp. Endowed Chair in Scholarly Excellence and Professor of Law at Duquesne Scholarship Collection. It has been accepted for inclusion in Hallowed Secularism by an authorized administrator of Duquesne Scholarship Collection. For more information, please contact beharyr@duq.edu.

Title: Passover, Easter and Impossible Renewal

Date: 2018-04-01T08:48:00.001-04:00

4/1/2018—Since I deny the supernatural in principle, I am not much for the miracles of plagues and rising from the tomb. But I am all for impossible renewal, which happens all the time. I just saw Darkest Hour, which represents just such an instance. We need a miracle to renew our public life. But the universe is full of the miracle of emergence—entities and events that surpass the elements that comprise them. Life is just such a miracle of emergence and so is freedom from Egypt and the Resurrection experience. So, happy Easter and Passover to all believers and let all of us live in hope for a better time.