Invocation

Delivered by Father Kenneth E. Myers, Chaplain of the Latin Mass Community of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, at the Inaugural Dinner for the Seminar on Judicial Review in the Americas . . . and Beyond

November 9, 2006

Let us pray:

Lord of all nations, supreme over all powers of this world, may rulers publicly acknowledge and honor You, and may the laws of nations express the order of Your creation.

May men of power find true renown in their submission to Your will, and may judges find justice in their obedience to Your eternal laws.

Bring under Your gentle rule our homes, where submission to Your laws means happiness for a country and its people.

May vows pledged in Your sight keep marriages unbroken, and may children mature in families where purity is found, abounding in all domestic virtues.

We ask Your blessing on our gathering and upon the friendship which is Your gift.

Master of our lives, may light from You shine upon us in all clarity, and may the powers of this world subject themselves to You, thereby receiving the gift of peace.

In the Name of Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.
