Foreword

FOREWORD
Honorable Joy Flowers Conti ......................................................427

Speech

ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES
DUQUESNE LAW SCHOOL CENTENNIAL
SPEECH, FEBRUARY 23, 2011
Eric H. Holder, Jr. ........................................................................429

Reflection

THE BEGINNING OF THE DuQUESNE LAW REVIEW
Peter J. King.................................................................435

Articles

COMPLETING THE PUZZLE: LAWYER ASSISTANCE
AND CONDITIONAL ADMISSION
Janice M. Holder.............................................................439

Pennsylvania’s 2008 Right to Know Law:
Open Access at Last
John L. Gedid..............................................................459

An Idea Whose Time Has Come: Certified
Legal Interns As Oral Advocates in the Pennsylvania Appellate Courts
Maureen E. Lally-Green, Judge (retired) .......................477
Recent Decisions

A Ne Exeat Right is a “Right of Custody” for the Purposes of the Hague Convention:
ABBOTT v. ABBOTT
Tracy Jones...............................................................................................................523

Police Officers’ Exercise of Discretion in the Operation of Sobriety Checkpoints:
The Need for Predetermined, Objective Guidelines for a Safe, Effective, and Constitutional Checkpoint: COMMONWEALTH v. WORTHY
Ann Kaluzavich.......................................................................................................545

Introduction to Legal Research and Writing Articles

One Path Towards the Future
Jan M. Levine..........................................................................................................569

Legal Research and Writing Articles

Writing on the Envelope: An Exploration of the Potentials and Limits of Writing in Law
Mary Barnard Ray....................................................................................................573

Legal Writing in the Time of Recession: Developing Cognitive Skills for Complex Legal Tasks
Elizabeth Fajans .....................................................................................................613

Epilogue

Epilogue: A Century of Excellence
Dean Ken Gormley ..................................................................................................635